Sort 9 - Silent/Sounded Consonant Alternation

My school has a newspaper that comes out every month. A group of 10 columnists come together and we write articles that would be exciting for readers. We designate which topics we are each going to write and without haste we begin the drafting process. This month John is writing an article about our school gym class. Our Physical Education instructors are teaching us about the muscular system. We lift weights and measure our muscle growth over time. Since it's autumn, one of the girls is writing a piece about thanksgiving dinner. She is putting together a piece on the different foods people traditionally eat. This edition I am writing an article about our school's new cafeteria. It was just recently remodeled. I will describe the new design and how it helps to designate which areas are for buying which items. It has really helped to hasten the lunch line. People have way more time to eat their lunch and chat with friends because of the new set-up! Each of the columnists are proud of their work every month. We sign our signatures proudly at the bottom of the articles we write. I hope this month's edition is a huge success!
